

FORD OFFERS TWO NEW CARS in the low-price field

Right—the Standard Ford Sedan
Below—the De Luxe Ford Sedan

There are two new Ford cars for 1938—the De Luxe and the Standard—differing in appearance, appointments and price—but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence.

Both are big, impressive cars, and thoroughly modern in appearance. Both have the famous Centre-Poise Ride, Ford Easy-Action Safety Brakes, and the other distinctive Ford features.

Both bring you the basic advantages of the 85-horsepower Ford V-8 engine.

V-type 8-cylinder engines were used only in expensive cars before Ford made them available in The Universal Car. Eight cylinders give great smoothness and flexibility. Compact V-type construction leaves more room for passengers and luggage.

Both new cars are economical to operate. Economy has always been a Ford tradition. The facts of Ford V-8 economy are confirmed by the findings of owners, who report 22 to 27 miles per gallon of gasoline. Value is also a Ford tradition.

Both cars, in proportion to price, represent true Ford value. The De Luxe costs slightly more than the Standard but provides extra style. De Luxe closed Sedan body types have considerably more passenger room and luggage space.

More people bought the 1937 Ford V-8 than any other 1937 make. It was a good car. But these are better cars, because Ford improvement goes on constantly. You'll realize that when you see and drive either new Ford V-8 for 1938.

FOR SPECIAL POSITIONS

While flowers are remarkably easy to grow and the average varieties as offered in Canadian seed catalogues will make a fair showing if planted almost anywhere, for unusual situations experts advise browsing through lists and selecting those types most suitable. For instance there are certain annuals like chard, alyssum, larkspur, gillyflower and phlox, which will actually give better results, more delicate coloring if planted in partial shade.

For full sun especially if planted close to a south wall where there is little protection from summer heat, there are things like, coreopsis, California and other poppies, portulaca or climbing morning glories and nasturtiums which love the sun and give remarkable results even in a stage of dry weather.

If a supply of cut flowers is wanted for the table, blooms with long stems that will keep well in water, then horticultural authorities urge the planting of such things as sweet peas, snapdragons, cosmos, zinnias, lupine, African marigolds, scabious asters, single and double, verbena and salpiglossa.

For scent, especially in the evening a few nicotina, carnations, mignonette or stocks, will perfume the whole garden.

Solid beds of annuals or big blocks in borders have exceptional appeal and they can be made up of petunias, phlox, dwarf marigolds, nasturtiums, verbena or stinnias.

TRY A NEW VEGETABLE

New grains and fruits are not the only thing that have been occupying the attention of plant breeders in recent years. In vegetables there have been even more improvements. Scientists have carried out this work in two directions: first by the introduction of vegetables unfamiliar to most Canadians, and secondly and probably more important by vast improvement of those varieties that have been grown in this country for years.

Of the vegetables new to most Canadians there are several worth a trial in any garden. One is the Lettuce, a new cone shaped headed sort that stays fresh and sweet long after the leaf sorts have shriveled up. Then there are Brussels sprouts, broad beans, broccoflower, sugar peas, Chinese cabbage, chives, endive, egg plant, leek and Swiss chard. Full descriptions will be found in any Canadian seed catalogue.

In regular vegetables there has been improvement all down the line, with the object of getting more flavor, succulence and longer season. Corn is a typical example. At one time it was only possible to get one variety of Bantam. Cobs were short and the season limited. Now there are offered three or four different Bantam types, some extra early, some regular season, some late. Cobs have been lengthened, kernels made bigger. One can enjoy the finest Bantam corn for over a month instead of but a week or two in the old days.

PRUNING
From March until June is usually considered the best season for pruning but there are a few specific exceptions. Most of these are the early blooming shrubs such as the Forsythia.

The main object of pruning whether it be rose bushes, fruit trees or flowering shrubs is to open up the centre of the growth so that sunshine and air may penetrate freely and also of course to produce a symmetrical plant. Naturally any dead or weak growth should be removed and also branches that rub against each other.

It seems to us that Hollywood shoots too many pictures and not enough actors.

Lancashire Grows No Cotton

THERE are no cotton fields in Lancashire. Cotton growing is also unknown to New England. Japan does not grow cotton. In all the world the principal places of cotton's manufacture have no raw cotton of their own.

THE REASON? Climate, mainly. Cotton is cultivated within the limits of 30 degrees from the equator. The chief manufacturing places are in cooler zones.

CANADA is one of these places. In common with Lancashire, New England and Japan, we grow no cotton in Canada. Also, in common with these countries we have developed a cotton spinning industry. Ours is the equal in technical skill of any other in the world.

FOR UPWARDS OF A CENTURY, cotton spinning has been carried on in Canada. Today it gives employment to twenty-one thousand persons. Dominion Textile Company Limited, an entirely Canadian company, has been spinning cotton since the early years of this century in half-a-dozen communities of the Province of Quebec. It employs 7,000 persons, who are annually paid a total of $5,000,000 in wages.

BOTANICAL NOTES FOR APRIL—
"For to the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land."

Surely anything more beautiful can scarcely be imagined than this sublime idyll of Solomon in exemplification of the season of seasons—Spring. These words are symbolical of health, wealth and happiness for all. For winter is past with its attendant hardships; growth and fertility come with the flowers; joy and gladness with the voice of the singing birds and the turtle.

Plant lovers realize what a wealth of beauty and happiness there is in store for them as the Song of Songs avers—"flowers appear on the earth." "New love is bright, and long love is greatest; but revived love is the tenderest thing on earth." As the same plants are sought each spring with new-finding, zest by all botanists irrespective of experience, they wonder-working panacea of vernal woodland rambles, together with this tender revived love, quickly banishes winter lethargy.

Most people know quite well what an experience of ease and gratification there is in the study of wild flowers; therefore they long to make friends with them, but hesitate to do so because they may not see their way clearly how to begin. This need not deter them. There was a time when even the most learned botanist knew nothing whatever about plants. He, like everyone else, had to make a start, so why not you? And now is the time.

A letter (which may be mailed free of charge) addressed to the Dominion Botanist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, will bring a sympathetic, comprehensive and speedy reply to anyone who may need information. If necessary a list of books dealing with Canadian wild flowers, their prices and publishers will be sent.

It is an unfortunate fact that the botanical herald of spring should be of rather a despicable character but nevertheless interesting.

Down in the bogs, swamps and the other wet places may be noticed here and there, small groups of what appear to be tiny gnomish dwarfs; such as figures in fairy stories or in the Silly Symphonies of the screen. Their cowls or monk's hoods are purplish-brown or greenish yellow and mostly mottled. Peeping from these cowls are round, sinister little faces. They seem to be creatures of another world but are in reality plants. The cowls are spathe and the faces the spathe composed of tiny flowers.

As many flowers possess an odor, pleasing or otherwise, the first instinct is to smell these. But what a shock! It may be skunk, garlic or, worse of horror!—potrid meat. This evil-smelling herald of spring is the forerunner of what will later become a malodorous cabbage; for these are the flowers of the notorious skunk cabbage.

Do not be deceived by connecting this nasty-smelling bunch of leaves with the cabbage of culinary fame. Happily there is no relationship. But strange to say (and strictly in confidence!) the skunk cabbage is a cousin of the famous African arum or callily, sheaves of which will be proudly carried by the June brides.

It is realized, however, that all Canadian cousins of the arum may have not the offensive habits of the skunk cabbage when the pretty little water arum smiles, and the Jack-in-the-pulpit gleams in May.

Towards the end of the month may be found one or two very adventurous wild flowers blooming in the open; possibly a precocious daisy-like Robin's plantain; with its violet flower heads; or an occasional crane's bill, and perhaps an early adder's tongue, here and there.

But in the protecting woodland several early and old friends are calling, calling you; smiling in the caressing sun and at the whisper of weedy-sweet Aeolian harmonies, swelling and sinking with an almost supernatural cadence—these mystic melodies harped by the gentle wind on the bare twigs of the naked trees.

MANURE FOR WHEAT

While barnyard manure is on vegetable gardens in all parts of Western Canada its value when applied on the wheat fields is appreciated by relatively few farmers.

Results obtained on the Dominion Experimental Station at Scott, Sask., during the last 20 years show that the application of manure has resulted in substantial increases in the yield obtained. Not only does the first crop following its application benefit, but succeeding crops after fallow also show increased yields of from two to five bushels per acre.

On the Illustration Stations at Hafford and Meota, Sask., and Meemoak, Alta., barnyard manure has been applied on oat stubble and ploughed in to the summer-fallow. Increased yields have resulted from its use on each station. In the case of Meota, where very low yields were obtained in the first two years, the increase in yield was barely sufficient to pay for the labor required to spread the manure.

At Hafford and Meemoak, increases as high as 5.4 bushels of wheat per acre have been obtained. Barnyard manure has also been used on experimental and demonstration plots of grains, grasses and legumes on Illustration Stations in Northern Saskatchewan. These include a wide variety of soil types but were principally on grey bush and black or peaty soils.

The results for several years show a rather wide variability. On practically all upland plots of grey bush or loam soil where manure was worked into the soil, increased yields were obtained. Top dressing on wheat has not given as good results as manure ploughed under. Where weed control has been made there has been no evidence of increased infestation resulting from the use of manure.

Continued use of manure tends to hasten maturity of grains. Residual effects are carried over into succeeding crops.

The World of Wheat

By
H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

"Thatcher is now recognized as equal in milling value to Marquis and so is acceptable for the grade No. 1 Northern."

This is the good news received from Great Britain where large scale tests on the milling of Thatcher—the new rust-resistant wheat—were arranged to be made by the Board of Grain Commissioners.

Farmers who operate in the rust areas, and who expect to seed some five million acres with Thatcher this coming spring, will be glad. The governments who have encouraged the use of Thatcher will be happy, and the "Crop Testing Plan" particularly will be relieved, for about half of all the Thatcher to be seeded this spring comes from the stocks the "Crop Testing Plan" brought in from Minnesota two years ago.

It all means that Thatcher will considerably increase the income of the prairie farmers in the rust areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and besides will do no harm to the reputation of Marquis and other high-quality wheats on world markets.

Thatcher is not a perfect rust-resistant wheat, but it is an excellent "stop-gap" until the plant breeders of the Dominion Experimental Farm, the Universities and the Rust Research Laboratory can produce something better, which will certainly come about, I for one believe, in a few years.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Grasshopper damage to corn in Argentina is widespread—South Africa harvested smallest wheat crop in years—China buys Australian flour—Germany buys over a million bushels of wheat from Rumania—Mexico buys American wheat—Rumanian official estimate of corn crop is 35 million bushels below last year.

Following factors have tended to lower price: U.S. winter wheat crop estimates are thirty million bushels

House of Hazards

By Mac. Arthur

higher than preliminary estimates—1937-38 Australian wheat yield surpasses all estimates—Greater areas are sown to winter wheat, rye and barley in Germany than previous year—Indian and European wheat crop prospects very favorable.

Crisp old leaves stir with pride,
Where the wind's voice is heard,
All things ready with a will,
April's coming up the hill.

Old Man Winter can't do much to us now. Everywhere people are saying something like that these days. Mary Mages Dodge had April in her heart when she penned the above lines. She evidently felt a bit about April. The poem reminded us that we didn't know too much about this month. A little research revealed the following:

"This fourth month in our year was the second month in the Roman calendar. The names comes from the Latin aperire, meaning to open. It doubtless refers to the buds and flowers opening. The name may have originally been Aprilis for Aphrodite the Greek name for Venus the Roman goddess of love and marriage.

A little Wincellette sleuthing revealed to us while all the Gods waited for her to be finally given to Vulcan. Aphrodite wore a girdle called to Ceres which "had the power of inspiring love". In due time she became the mother of Cupid.

Realizing that this is April's background it is no wonder that it is a great month for lovers. Aphrodite's favorite flowers were the rose, myrtle, poppy and apple. The dove, the swan, the swallow, the hare and the tortoise were also her pets.

THE VALUE OF ADVERTISING

Advertising has been from time to time, and still is occasionally, the target for indictments and charges leveled at it, usually with little or no foundation for the allegations, and generally launched by the type of person who is prone to vent a stream of abuse for the pleasure of knocking it down or by those who have no knowledge of the subject.

One of the allegations heard against advertising is that it is misleading and sometimes downright untruthful. This is the basest kind of criticism, and although it can be admitted that occasionally some advertising falls within this category, it is rare and for obvious reasons.

In the first place this class of advertising is an detriment to the interests of the advertiser as it is to the purchaser and as a result it defeats its own object, for instead of creating business it speedily destroys it and that is the last thing that legitimate business wants.

In the second place, no reputable advertising medium—be it daily or weekly press magazine or radio—will knowingly accept false advertising because in so doing it destroys its own value as a medium. Without taking the question of ethics into consideration at all, it is an economic hazard which few advertising media are willing to accept for the sake of temporary, paltry gain.

Thus, it may be taken for granted that the great bulk of advertising which comes within the ken of the average consumer is truthful and does not misrepresent the commodities or services which it desires to sell, and that the more regular frequency with which advertising appears, the more unimpeachable are the statements which such advertising makes about the product it offers. Further, the more reputable the medium, the less is the likelihood that it will offend in this regard.

With reputable media, and particularly in this case of the weekly newspaper, accuracy and fairness of the advertising it carries is regarded as important as the accuracy and fairness of the statements made in its other departments.

service to Canada. I was raised on a farm and know the constructive work done by the rural weekly papers. I still read them. These publications, being read, are read to a greater extent, for the number of copies issued, than any other class of papers.

You have asked me for suggestions, and without giving the matter careful thought, the suggestions that come first to my mind are as follows:

1. To encourage the highest regard for government, for law and the enforcement of law.

2. That you urge the election, to our different government bodies, men and women of the highest character and whose purposes will be to serve the people of this country unselfishly and to the best of their ability. And on the other hand endeavor to break down political organizations which seek to control government for a selfish purpose and not for the benefit of the people at large.

3. To encourage people to be self-supporting and to live within their means, and wherever possible, to accumulate. I see no reason for the extensive role that seems to exist, not only in our country, but other countries. There is as good an opportunity today to make a living in Canada as there has been any time in the past. As a matter of fact, I think present conditions are more favorable.

4. That we secure and maintain an export market. Canada is naturally an export country and our success depends largely on our efforts along these lines.

5. To build an export market we must compete in quality, price and service. To compete in price we must have competitive costs, therefore, low costs for the basis of our success.

6. That you encourage a better understanding between the rural and urban districts. Each of these districts are depending on the other. It is only through intelligent planning and close co-operation of rural and city people that we can achieve the best results.

7. That you use your best efforts to eliminate waste, which is ruining this country and has put it into a serious condition through unnecessary debt. The two major sources of waste are the Canadian National Railway and the multiplicity of governments and the unnecessary number of people employed by these governments.

Canada must do a better job than she has done in the recent past if we are to meet our obligations and to reduce our taxes and get a greater standard of our people.

Yours very truly,
C. H. CARLE, President, Dominion Bank

BY-LAW No. 49

OF THE MUNICIPAL DISTRICT OF GILT EDGE, No. 422, WAINWRIGHT, ALBERTA

A By-law Pursuant to The Agricultural Relief Advances Act

Under the authority of The Agricultural Relief Advances Act the Council of the Municipal District of Gilt Edge No. 422 enacts as follows:

1. This Municipal District may for the year 1938 advance Seed Grain on credit to farmers residing on patented lands within the Municipal District who, owing to bad crops or other adverse conditions, are unable to procure the same, and the Council may, to enable it to make such advances, borrow upon the promissory note or notes of the municipal district $5,000.00 for the purchase of a supply thereof for distribution.

2. The purchase price of all commodities advanced hereunder shall be secured by promissory notes payable on demand and by registered liens in favor of the Municipal District upon all crops grown upon the lands named in the application for the season after the date thereof and by a charge upon the said lands.

Done and passed at Wainwright, Alberta, this Fifteenth day of March, A.D. 1938.

SOMERSET MAUGHAM

The Play That "Wasn't Worth Bothering About" Became the Greatest Drama Since Hamlet

What would you say is the greatest stage play ever written? When reading critics of New York voted, by secret ballot, on the ten greatest plays of all time, the first honors went to Hamlet, written more than three hundred years ago. And they decided that the second greatest play ever written was not Macbeth or King Lear nor The Merchant of Venice, but Rain. Yes, Rain, that tempestuous drama of sex and religion, fighting tooth and claw, in the South Seas—the play based on a short story by Somerset Maugham.

Maugham has made $200,000 out of Rain. Yet he didn't spend even five minutes writing the play. This is how it happened: He wrote a short story called Sadie Thompson. He didn't think much of the story—but one night, John Colton was staying at his house, and Colton wanted something to read till he fell asleep. Maugham handed him the proofs of Sadie Thompson. Colton was fascinated with the story. It thrilled him. He got out of bed and paced the floor, and in his imagination that night he saw it as a play—a drama that was destined to become immortal.

The next morning he rushed to Somerset Maugham. "There's a great play in that story," he told him. "I've been thinking about it all night. Put me to sleep, eh? I didn't sleep a wink!"

But Maugham wasn't impressed. "A play?" he said, in his crisp British voice. "Oh, yes, possibly—a bad sort of play. Might run six weeks. But it isn't really worth bothering about. Not really." And the play that he didn't think worth bothering about made him a fifth of a million dollars.

When the play was finished, several producers turned it down. They were positive it would fail. Then Sam Harris accepted it. He wanted it for a young actress named Jeanne Eagles. But the agent for the play objected. He wanted someone who was better known.

Finally Jeanne Eagles got the part and played Sadie Thompson with a passion and power that made her the sensation of Broadway. She played to packed houses for four hundred and fifteen rip-roaring performances.

Somerset Maugham has written many distinguished books such as Of Human Bondage, The Moon and Sixpence, and The Painted Veil; and he has written a score of successful dramas. But he didn't write his own most celebrated play.

Some people call him a genius now; but he was a financial failure for eleven years after he started writing. Think of it! This man who was destined to make a million dollars a year for the first eleven years that he turned out stories and novels. Sometimes he went hungry. He tried to get a job writing editorials on a salary basis; but he couldn't. "I had to keep on writing," Maugham told me, "because I just literally couldn't hold down a job."

His friends told him he was a

AMONG THE OLD-TIMERS

TEN YEARS AGO

Mr. J. Patterson moved his family into their new home on Queen Street, which he recently purchased from Dr. S. Wiley.

A presentation was made at the home of Mrs. H. Wallace to Mrs. W. W. term of an O.E.S. lodge plan by the members of that fraternity.

Miss Huxley, who was appointed matron of the new municipal hospital in town, arrived from Red Deer to commence her duties.

Miss Claudine E. Forster and Mr. Harold Brunner, a popular young couple of the town, were quietly married in Edmonton on Wednesday afternoon. They will take up residence on Fourth Avenue upon their return from a short honeymoon.

Mr. J. White arrived from Wetaskiwin to take up his new duties at the hospital.

Honoring their pastor, Rev. C. J. McKay, who left this week for Edmonton, the members of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church held a social evening on Thursday. Mr. J. Cuthbertson acted as chairman. The presentation of a gold watch was made by Mr. R. Dunsmore and Mrs. W. Brunner presented Mrs. McKay with a handsome tray.

Mr. Geo. Steel, who finished his new home on Seventh Avenue recently, moved his family there on Monday.

Messrs. W. Bibby, Jr., J. Hartling and J. Carroll left on Monday to accept positions in the new oil drilling field at Chin, Alta.

Mr. H. C. Buckle arrived from Edmonton to clerk in Washburn's Hardware in place of Jimmy Braccoglini.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. V. E. Graham and family arrived in town from Seattle where they spent the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Graham have taken up residence on Fifth Avenue.

Earl Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Morton who farm north of town was taken seriously ill on Friday last and upon examination by the doctor it was found that an immediate operation was necessary to save his life. A special train was secured at once and made the trip to Edmonton in four hours. The operation, though successful, disclosed burst appendix.

Fire which broke out from an unknown source, completely destroyed the barn at the rear of Mr. W. C. Bowen's property last week. Although the stock which was housed in the building was saved, a large amount of hay was destroyed.

As a result of the higher prices of grain since the outbreak of the war, the farmers of Wainwright commenced seeding operations on the largest foot to keep on trying to write. He had already been graduated from medical college, so they urged him to forget fiction and practice medicine. But nothing could sway him from his determination to write his name large across the pages of English literature.

Bob Ripley of Believe It Or Not fame, once said to me: "A man will work and slave in obscurity for ten years and then become famous in ten minutes." That is about what happened to both Ripley and Maugham.

Here is how Somerset Maugham got his first break. Somebody's play had failed in London, and the manager of the theatre was looking around for something to replace it. He wasn't looking for a hit—just any old thing would do to fill in until he could get a real play into rehearsal. So he fished around in his desk, and pulled out a play by Somerset Maugham. Lady Frederick, it was called. He had had it in his desk for a year; he had read it; it wasn't much of a play — he knew that. But it might do for a few weeks. He put it on—and the miracle happened. Lady Frederick was a smash hit. It set all London talking. It tickled England so nothing had since the sparkling dialogue of Oscar Wilde.

Immediately every theatre manager in London begged for a play by Somerset Maugham. He dug out manuscripts out of his desk, and within a few weeks, three of his plays were playing to capacity houses.

Royalties came pouring in a golden flood. Publishers fell over each other bargaining for the work of this new genius. The Society showered him with invitations; and after eleven years of oblivion, Somerset Maugham found himself the toast of Mayfair drawing rooms.

Maugham told me that he never writes after one of his plays. He has his brain goad dead in the afternoon. He writes in a penhouse on top of his Moorish villa, the French Riviera. He always smokes his pipe and reads philosophy for an hour before he starts to write.

He told me that he isn't superstitious — nevertheless he has the sign of the Evil Eye stamped on the bindings of his books. He has the same curious design on the family plate. He has it on his striders and on his playing cards. He has it carved on the mantel above the fireplace, and he even has it carved above the entrance to his villa. But when I asked him if he really believed in it, he merely smiled.

scale in the history of the district.

Mr. Lee Wells, who was dangerously ill for the past couple of weeks, has improved considerably.

Mrs. P. E. Ross and daughter Gladys, who spent the winter visiting relatives in Ontario and other eastern points, arrived back in town on Thursday's train.

While harnessing horses last week, Mr. J. A. Foster of G.H. Edge was kicked in the left leg by one of the animals, breaking it between the knee and ankle. He received medical attention in town.

SYDENHAM

Congratulations to Miss Iris Frick, whose wedding took place last Monday to Mr. Bill Fisher. They will take up residence on the farm vacated by Mr. Craddock, of Mayfield.

Miss Jeanette Creteau was an overnight guest on Friday at the home of Miss June Seabrook.

One of the worst wind and snow storms, which lasted a couple of days and nights, was experienced in this district. Most of the pupils were unable to attend school with roads being blocked in places during the past week.

Despite the rough weather a nice batch of young chickens are doing well on the farm of Mr. S. Ackroyd.

HEATH

Miss Alberta Davis left last week for Vancouver, B.C., to take up further studies for Chinese missionary work.

Ed Turnbull is up at Waterways and is at present staying with the Morton Herberts there.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barnett motored from Wainwright on Sunday to visit Mrs. Barnett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Davis at Arm Lake.

We are sorry to hear that Henry Potvin is again in hospital at Edmonton.

GREENSHIELDS

The regular meeting of the Ladies Aid will be held Tuesday, April 12th, at the hall instead of April 13th, so that those who wish it can attend the auction sale at Alex. Jure's.

Owing to the weather the masquerade was postponed until a later date.

Mr. R. I. Bond spent Saturday in Edmonton.

Sheepskin Flats

Mr. J. Wilkinson has not been so well lately, so we are sorry to report.

Little Ada Mae Gardiner spent a few days last week at the home of Mrs. R. J. A. Roberts.

The Wilkinson brothers entertained a few of their neighbors last week when they served up their extra large pile of wood.

Little Anna Liza Rasmussen, we are pleased to hear, is much improved in health since last week.

Mr. Fisher, of Edgerton, was in the district and bought up a carload of horses which will be later shipped to Nova Scotia.

THE STAR IS YOUR PAPER

"Persons who patronize papers should pay promptly, for the pecuniary prospects of the press possess a peculiar power in pushing forward public prosperity. If the publisher is paid promptly his pocketbook kept plenteous by prompt paying patrons he puts his pen to the paper in peace, his paragraphs are more pointed; he paints his pictures of passing events in more pleasing colors, and the perusal of his paper is a pleasure to the people. Paste this piece of proverbial philosophy in some place where all persons can perceive it."

LOCAL NOTES

Owing to a snowplow and two engines turning over on the Biggar-Loverna branch of the C.N.R. on Friday last, W. G. Brown, an employee well known in Wainwright, was scalded to death.

Mr. Tom Burkholder was in town from Edmonton on a visit last week for a day or two.

Cop. Emoff the local policeman, copped off his corns, callouses and bunions with Cream Corn and Bunion Salves. Featured by Wainwright Pharmacy and all drug counters.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Simpson leave this week for their new home at Two Hills where Gordon will manage the Bank of Montreal.

"Up in the Clouds"

by Beulah Earle

FIRST INSTALLMENT

Flaming out of the east, the little black plane sped straight for the landing field. Natalie Wade watched it idly. She had nothing else to do.

The plane had held her gaze mostly because of the direction of its flight. Other planes from the busy base of San Carlos Airport circled or looped or dived as though in sheer abandon at having found their wings, but this black ship dived straight for the searchlight towers and the mugging windsock as though all life must perish if it did not reach the field within the instant.

Then suddenly someone yelled in the field office. Grease monkeys came heads up at the cry. Then racing feet pounded on the concrete where the girl stood and shirt-sleeved men rushed past her to the open field.

Crossing the light breeze, the ship skimmed low, its motor roaring more and more loudly as it neared. Then, at the last possible moment, it seemed the roar died. The ship sat down on the far tarmac but taxied straight on as though it would crash the high barrier before the hangar.

Moved by the rushing feet about her, the girl slipped through the bar-still holding the helmet, reached out to stop her.

"Come on," he laughed, "don't be hasty. A few more kisses and my face will be clean."

Without ado, he bent to kiss her squarely on the lips and then swept her along beside him to the apparent chagrin of the shrieking admirers.

At the hangar office, Natalie would have drawn away but the hero thrust her through the screened door. Screams and shrieks rose from the other girls when they were stopped at the entrance with the mechanic and a queue of loitering boys.

Instantly, Monty lifted the girl quickly to one of the desks.

"Now stay put there," he laughed down at her. "I'll give you that interview in a few minutes. Got to clean up first and sign the papers."

Natalie "stayed put". There wasn't anything else to do and, after all, what did it matter?

The brown-haired Monty had disappeared into the wash room. Presently she could hear him sloshing water over himself with much sniffing and splashing.

A gray-haired man who seemed to be the port manager was yelling questions at him and writing

Natalie Wade had no personal cognate at all to the editorial room, pointed upon as an unusual typewriter and began pounding out the story of the flight as she thought her father would have done.

"Boy," she called presently. The loitering office boys moved reluctantly toward her.

When he stood at Natalie's side, she spoke to him quickly.

"I'm new here," she said. "Tell the city editor I want a job and that I'm writing Mont Wallace's exclusive story of a new record flight."

The boy looked at her with a fussy eye and then ambled off to the desks where two or three men worked apparently at getting out the sporting extra.

One of these with worn suspenders and with his green eye-shade drawn down so that it formed a slight arch, a few minutes looked up in startled fashion. He reached for a piece of paper, started at it, and then came over to the girl's side.

"What's all this about?" he demanded.

"I'm looking for a job," she jerked out between bursts of typewriter pounding. "This is Mont Wallace who just broke the East-West flight record."

"I'm writing the story and he's going to sign it if I do a good job. Does that rate a try-out from you?"

The small man peered up at Wallace. "Then he thrust out his hand."

"I got a flash on the yarn from the airport," he said. "My men were late at the spot and they told me someone else had grabbed you. If you will give the young lady your story, she goes on the pay-sheet right away. I can't promise how long she'll stay there but she'll get a trial."

Wallace grinned.

"About how long," he questioned, "would that trial last?"

But the girl spoke up swiftly.

"It doesn't matter about that," she said. "If I can't hit the ball I'll know it quickly enough and so will they. My name's Natalie Wade. Put it on the payroll and let me draw enough when the story is done to take the big boy here out to dinner."

"I'm Mack Hanlon," the city editor, said, glancing sidelong at the girl. "A dinner goes on office expense account if you keep on the way you're going. Slip her out fast. We go down in twenty minutes."

Sitting across from Mont Wallace over the very excellent dinner that was to be charged to the San Carlos Express, Natalie laughed merrily.

"This," she explained, "is what I call getting the breaks. No job, no money, no place to go. I wander out to the airport because it is a long walk and I like to watch the planes. Then you buzz in, kiss me sweetly, and carry me off. Use you to muscle into a job and a good dinner with the hero of the hour. Isn't life a joke?"

"All perfectly sensible," Monty assured her. "You are young. You are beautiful. And you have a head on your shoulders. That's all any girl needs in this world."

"The evening will soon be complete," bantered Natalie. "You don't by any chance happen to have fallen in love with me?"

"That's about all that could possibly occur to me to the occasion."

"Well," the youth laughed, "you can add that up, too. I guess. Something happened to me when I saw you standing there at the field. That's why I kissed you. And if it isn't love it's sure a perfect counterfeit. You might as well give it the benefit of the doubt."

"That," she chuckled, "is what I consider the response of a gentleman. I wouldn't call it an impassioned declaration but it certainly fills the bill. I am very greatly obliged to you."

"Never hit an answer, Natalie Wade," Monty laughed. "Give me a few drinks and I'll make it just as impassioned as you like. What say we go somewhere to dance after dinner?"

"That would be very nice," Natalie accepted. "But please omit the drinks. I am quite satisfied and I don't know you well enough yet to try hopping up our acquaintance with cocktails."

"All right," he agreed with evident reluctance. "Just as you say. But you have no idea how a few drinks ripen the affections."

When dinner was over he became bored. He insisted on having a car and they drove first along the beach road. At length they found an attractive spot where an abandoned lighthouse had been turned into a sort of roadside inn and there they sat for a long time looking out toward the Pacific.

Hints for the Household

DRIED FRUIT DESSERTS

Not all of our fresh fruits are on sale everywhere during the spring months. But we can always purchase dried figs, prunes, apricots and other dried fruit which lend themselves to some very excellent dishes. The following rennet-custards require no eggs, no baking and no boiling. Through them the children will get the minerals and fruit sugars so necessary to their health, as well as liberal quantities of milk in a pleasing form.

DATE RENNET-CUSTARD

1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
1 pint milk
3 tablespoons sugar
20 dates

Maraschino cherries

Dissolve rennet tablet in 1 tablespoon cold water. Cut 14 dates in small pieces. Mix well with half a cup slightly warmed milk. Press through strainer. Add strained dates and sugar to remaining 1 1/2 cups milk. Warm to lukewarm—not hot (120 F.).

A few drops on the inside of the wrist should feel comfortably warm. Remove from stove. Add dissolved tablet. Stir a few seconds and pour immediately into individual dessert glasses. Let set until firm—about 30 minutes.

It was not till the girl found that they were sitting side by side without speech did she realize that something unusual had happened to her. This was no ordinary evening no common place flirtation. There was something about their sudden acquaintance, that turned first glorious and that made the first strains of the small string orchestra send them into each other's arms without realizing it.

They had risen when the music sounded and stood upon the tiled terrace. It was only a step from the shadow that clothed them to the moonlit dance floor. But for a long moment they did not take that step.

Other couples began moving from the terrace within but the two were not aware of it. When he bent his head, her lips met his without shyness or confusion. It was as though the moment were prearranged.

Then she gave a low laugh.

"Aren't we supposed to be dancing?" she asked lightly.

He kissed her again quickly.

"Perhaps we are," he chuckled as he swept her out onto the floor with swift, rhythmic strides, "but it seems like a waste of time and of very excellent music that might be much better employed."

He danced, she found, with grace and ease. It was as though he really enjoyed the music and as though there had been no need for him to learn the steps through which he guided her. For the first time, she reminded herself, since her high school class dance, she was enjoying—really enjoying—a party like this.

10 minutes. Chill. Before serving, garnish with slices of date and maraschino cherries arranged like a flower, using the dates for petals and the cherries for the centre.

ORANGE RENNET-CUSTARD WITH PRUNE WHIP

1 package orange rennet powder
1 pint milk
1 egg white
1/4 cup sugar
1-2 cups prune pulp
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Make orange rennet-custard according to directions on package, and chill. Just before serving, beat egg white until stiff. Add sugar gradually until thoroughly blended. Add prune pulp, prepared by rubbing cooked prunes through a sieve) and lemon juice. Heap the glasses of rennet-custard with prune whip, and if desired garnish with pistachio nuts.

FLAVOR USES OF PEEL

Grated orange and lemon rind are used by the best cooks to flavor cakes, pie, bread, desserts, frostings, fillings and sauces being preferred for flavor and economy to commercially prepared extracts.

To grate, only the yellow portion of the rind should be removed. This yellow portion contains the oil cells from which come the oils that give flavor.

Winter oranges and lemons have clean skins of waxy texture, especially suited for grated rind and ground peel.

Grated Peel: Grate only the yellow portion. Use fresh or mix with sugar and keep in tightly covered jar.

Ground Peel: The whole peel may be ground fine and used like grated rind.

FISH DISHES

I present the following very tasty fish recipe as my contribution to those who have a leaning toward the funny tribe as food:

BAKED FISH LOAF

1 pound halibut steak
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1 cup stock
1 cup butter
2 eggs beaten separately
1/2 teaspoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Salt and pepper to taste

Remove the skin and bone from the raw fish and separate it into little pieces. Then run it through the food chopper with the finest attachment.

Soak the bread in the milk and stock (brown stock) combined, and cook until the bread is a tender paste.

Stir to leave the sides of the pan. Stir to prevent burning. Mix with the fish, butter and eggs and season with the salt, pepper and lemon juice. Form into a roll or loaf, roll in buttered bread or cracker crumbs, dot over with butter and place in a hot oven for from one-half to three-quarters of an hour. Serve with the following sauce.

There's A Mathematical Formula
That's Just As Certain As Any You Ever Learned
In School

ANY FARMER who's going to hold a public auction should look upon The Star as a partner in his enterprise.

He can furnish the property to sell. He can furnish the auctioneer, but he can't furnish the bidders—and he can't have a sale without them.

There's where we come in. That's our job. We'll get him a crowd if he'll give us half a chance.

We'll carry the news of his sale to other farmers—not only his neighbors, but to hundreds of other prospective bidders. We'll do the job quicker, easier and cheaper than any one else in the world.

How School Act Works

We have been asked to give an outline of the regulations applying to the formation and operation of enlarged school areas.

The more important parts, relating to preliminary organization and the duties of the present school boards (applicable to rural—not town—school districts) after the enlarged area plan is in effect are dealt with here. Sections 11, quotation ("") marks are copied from the Act, the balance is as the Act is understood by the Editor, checked over by others who have made a study of the Act.

Before going on it might be well to explain that there will be three units as far as area is concerned, the Division, which constitutes the whole area, the sub-division, of which there will be at least five in each area, and the school district, which presumably will remain as at present, bounded. Two governing units will conduct the affairs of the division, the Divisional Board, which will constitute a trustee elected in each subdivision, and will work in conjunction with any appointed officials, and the school board which will work under the direction of the Divisional Board and Divisional Officials.

Conditions Under Which Division Is Formed

"231.—(1) When the conditions prevailing are such that it appears advisable in the interests of education so to do, or if it is so requested by the boards of trustees of the majority of school districts in a proposed division, the Minister may by order constitute a school division consisting of any number of rural public school districts not being districts wholly or partially included in a consolidated district. Each school division shall be divided into five or more parts by the Minister.

Contents of the Order

In ordering the formation of a school division: some person shall be named as secretary for the time being; a date shall be fixed for a meeting of delegates from the subdivisions; and in the case of it being necessary to hold an election for any members of the divisional board, the day and time for holding of such election; assign a name and number for the division and a number for each sub-division shall be assigned.

Changes Permissible

Where conditions warrant, or if requested by the majority of Boards in a division, the Minister may transfer any school district from division to another, or may exclude or include any school district from or in any division.

Each order made pursuant to this section shall be published in the Alberta Gazette and a copy sent to the secretary of each school district mentioned therein.

School Board Meeting to Elect Delegate to Sub-Divisional Meeting

When an order has been made the secretary of each school district affected shall call a meeting of the trustees at least ten days prior to the date of the first sub-divisional meeting for the purpose of electing a delegate. (In each year following, the delegate shall be elected in September). The delegate must be a British subject an elector of the district and able to read and write. In case a delegate is not appointed the Minister may make such appointment.

In case an official trustee has been appointed under section 8 he shall appoint the delegate, and if no suitable person can be found he may act as delegate.

Subdivisional Meetings

Meetings of subdivisions shall be held on such days, at times and places as ordered, (and in following years between the first day of December and the second Tuesday of that month inclusive), at the time and place the divisional board may decide. Divisional secretary will notify all delegates of subdivisional meetings. Quorums shall consist of not less than half the delegates. In the absence of a quorum the meeting shall be postponed for not more than five days by resolution of those present.

At the sub-divisional meeting a chairman shall be appointed from the delegates present, after which reports of superintendent, secretary of division, auditor and other reports and communications shall be read and discussed.

One hour after the opening of the meeting the chairman shall, if there be a vacancy, declare the meeting open for nominations for divisional trustee (with qualifications same as delegate). Nominations shall be open for one-half hour. Nominations shall be in writing on form I with qualifications of nominees vouches for on form K. For procedure in case of withdrawal after nomination see section 235 (3a).

If there be only one nomination the chairman shall declare nominee elected. (vi) at the divisional meeting of the division a certificate of the trustee's election. Should he receive more than one nomination he shall deliver to the secretary of the division a signed certificate setting out the names of the nominees and the order of time at which they were nominated. Copies of this nomination shall also be sent by him to the Minister. The secretary of the division shall then send to the secretaries of each school district in the sub-division a copy thereof.

Election of Divisional Trustee

In case of more than one candidate being nominated a poll shall be held. The secretary of the division shall have the ballots printed and distribute them to the secretaries of the various school districts at least ten days before the date set by the order for the poll. (In subsequent years before the 25th day of December). If such election is called in the year of constitution of the district the secretary of each school district shall call a meeting of the electors at the time and place fixed in the order, in the manner prescribed in section 46 of the Act. At this public meeting of the electors the poll shall be held. (In subsequent years the election shall be held on the second Tuesday in January). Provisions 47, 48 to 59, shall apply to the poll, with the necessary changes. The chairman of the meeting shall be entitled to a vote.

Method of counting ballots and reporting are set forth in sections 239 and 240 of the Act. (If aggregate ballots of a sub-division show two candidates to have the same number of votes the first nominated shall be considered elected).

Term of Office

Trustees of the divisional board shall hold office for two years or until their successor is elected. In the case of the first board, three of the trustees will be selected to serve the full period, and the balance will serve for one year or until their successor is elected.

Disposition of Assets

248. Upon the day fixed by the order constituting a division,—

(a) all the assets of every school district included in the division shall become vested in the Board of the division subject to any subsisting charges, liens and encumbrances for the purpose of all the districts included therein;

Provided always that in case the assets of a district exclusive of its school site, school building, teacherage and school equipment, and exclusive of all grants receivable and all arrears of taxes in excess of liabilities and all other accounts receivable exceed its liabilities, the amount in excess shall be credited in the books of the Divisional Board to the district and the amount of such credit shall from and after the expiration of the third year after the year in which the division was formed be available for the provision of educational facilities and equipment not ordinarily furnished by the Divisional Board and which are required to be furnished by the resolution of the board of trustees of the district;

Settlement of Liabilities

(b) all the liabilities of each district included in the division shall be payable by the Divisional Board out of the funds of the Board;

Provided always that in case the liabilities of a school district exceed its assets exclusive of its school site, school buildings teacherage and school equipment, the equalization grants payable in respect of the district and all arrears of taxes owing to the district shall be used for the purposes of paying the amount of the deficiency, or for the purpose of reimbursing the Divisional Board for payments made by the Board on account of the said liabilities;

Duties and Privileges of Local Boards

Of Trustees

(c) the board of trustees of each school district included in the division shall cease to have any of the powers duties and functions conferred upon a Board of Trustees by this Act and shall, as from and after the said day, have the following powers and duties, namely,—

(i) to appoint a chairman and honorary secretary-treasurer;

(ii) subject to any regulations of the Divisional Board, to have the care and management of the property of the school district;

(iii) to make representations to the Superintendent of the division as to the maintenance, repair and extension of the school and other buildings of the district and any furniture and equipment therein;

(iv) to raise money by voluntary subscription or by other voluntary means for the purpose of providing equipment approved by the Superintendent which is not ordinarily provided by the Divisional Board;

(v) to require the Divisional Board to furnish at the expense of the district apparatus or equipment for the school of the district which is not ordinarily provided by the Divisional Board for the schools in the division; (vi) to make arrangements for the supply and maintenance of drinking water to the school of the district as may be prescribed by the Divisional Board; and to cause the same to be duly carried out;

Homemakers' Exchange

of Helpful Household Hints and Recipes

Conducted by ELEANOR HOWE

Apartment dwellers, as well as others, need no longer be perplexed over how to dispose of the dust in the vacuum cleaner bag. First, spread a newspaper on the floor; then take the dust bag from the cleaner and put the opening of the dust bag down into a very deep paper bag. Place the palm of your hand or a piece of paper over the metal opening at the top of the cleaner bag and hold the paper bag closely around the cloth bag. Then, gently shake the dust into the paper bag.

Other exciting things, besides beans, come from Boston, for here is a recipe for Glorified Spuds that originated in that historic city. Pare and slice the desired number of potatoes and arrange in layers in a buttered casserole, sprinkling each layer with salt, pepper and flour. Then pour over a can of cream of celery soup and bake in a moderate oven (350°) until tender.

With Lent bringing about a big play on fish and seafoods, let's not forget the appropriateness of oysters. And, yet, it's simple too, to prepare them in this fashion: Sprinkle oysters with salt and pepper; dip them in beaten egg diluted with a small quantity of water, and roll in fine cracker meal. Then fry in butter over a medium flame for about 10 minutes, turning once. Cover the bottom of a hot platter with hot tomato sauce and place the oysters in it. Garnish with chopped parsley and serve at once.

CARROT ICE CREAM? How peculiar! Yes, but it's a clever pleasing way to incorporate carrots in the daily diet. Just try it: Soak 1 tablespoon gelatin in ½ cup cold milk; dissolve in ½ cup hot milk. Then add ¼ cup sugar and 2 beaten egg yolks and cook, slowly, stirring constantly, until thick. Add 1 pint coffee cream and cool.

Combine 1½ cups cooked carrot pulp; ½ cup carrot water (in which carrots were cooked); ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon each of clove cinnamon and nutmeg; 1 teaspoon lemon juice and ½ cup brown sugar; add to first mixture. Pour mixture in freezing container of modern ice cream freezer; assemble and cover. Then pack with mixture of 3 parts crushed ice and 1 part rock salt.

Turn crank slowly and evenly for 5 to 10 minutes, or until turning becomes difficult. Then carefully remove cover; lift out dasher and pack down frozen mixture with a spoon. Replace cover, draw of water and replenish ice and salt mixture. Cover and let stand at least 1 hour. Serves 8.

Who has not struggled with trying to get a heavy piece of yarn through the eyes of even a large quilting needle? Give this up and try this instead: Put a double piece of No. 50 sewing thread through the eye. It will go in with no trouble at all. Then insert one end of the yarn into the loop of the double thread and pull this thread back through the eye again. The yarn will follow along meekly!

If you're planning a St. Patrick's party here is a grand refreshment idea. Fill individual shamrock molds with lime-flavored gelatin to which you have added thinly-sliced stuffed olives, cucumber and onion. Unmold these in sturdy, crisp lettuce cups and top each salad with a spoonful of your best tomato salad.

Then to complete the lovely green picture place the salads on a large tray or platter covered with green-tinted crushed ice. This is done by simply sprinkling a few drops of diluted, green liquid coloring over crushed ice—obtained from your modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator or ordered, all ready to use, from the modern ice service man.

visional Board and to cause the same to be duly carried out;

(vii) at the cost of the division to provide suitable toilet and sanitary accommodation in the school building, or in the alternative separate buildings for privies for boys and girls, which buildings shall be erected in the rear of the school house at least ten feet apart, with their entrances facing in opposite directions or otherwise, as factually ascertained from each other;

(viii) to co-operate with the teacher in the care, management and supervision of school property and subject to any regulations of the Divisional Board and at the cost of the Division to effect any emergency repairs thereto which may be necessary;

(ix) make such representations to the Superintendent and to the Divisional Board as to the betterment or extension of the educational facilities for residents of the district;

(x) in case it desires to do so; to nominate by resolution one or more persons for employment by the Board as teacher in the school of the district;

(xi) to meet at the call of any two trustees for the purpose of consideration of any matter of educational concern to the district and to call annual and other meetings of the electors of the district whenever required so to do by law;

(xii) to make provisions for the holding of elections of trustees and the elections of members of the Divisional Board in accordance with the provisions of this Act;

(xiii) to perform such other duties as may be required by this or any other Act or the regulations of the Department.

FREE LENDING LIBRARIES

Are being placed at one line country elevator in the towns, villages and hamlets throughout the areas of Western Canada which have suffered crop failures as a result of lack of rainfall in recent years. These libraries, which owe their initial inception to Her Excellency The Lady Tweedsmuir, are made possible through the joint efforts of the Association of Canadian Bookmen and other public-spirited organizations and citizens throughout Canada. The North-West Grain Dealers' Association has made itself responsible for the expense of housing, distribution and circulation of the books.

Members of families, regardless of which elevator system or company they patronize, may obtain the loan of books from this library without charge. When the books in a library have served the needs of a community another unit will be moved into the district.

If your community has not yet received a library, and you desire one, communicate with your line elevator agent or write to

Admits: 25¢ & 15¢

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Moulton arrived home on Sunday after several weeks' absence in California. They were held up for three days in Montana owing to the recent storm, which was much worse there than in Alberta.

Mr. Bob Reid has purchased a new "Climax" Diesel tractor from Guy Tory, in preparation for his spring work.

Don't forget to order your Hot Cross Buns from your local baker, Cowley's Bakery will have these ready for delivery early on Good Friday morning. Get your order in early.

Although it was reported that Mrs. N. King, of Pabian, had lost some cattle during the storm, the animals were found some miles from home after a search.

Using the big town snowplow, the roads to Greenhills were broken out following the big storm.

Mr. Oric Elder, a former resident, spent a few days here from Saskatoon last week with relatives.

Coming! Wabasso Cotton Demonstration. Wednesday, April 27th, to Saturday, April 30th, at Armstrong's. Be sure to arrange to visit this demonstration. It will pay you.

Although the storm last week piled the drifts as high as ten or twelve feet in places, the bus from the city only missed one day's run. It sure had a hard trip on two other days, though, but made the grade without mishap.

Mr. Gene Grogan has moved into the Kemp house on Third avenue east.

Mr. R. Paton took a run up to the city at the week-end.

Jennie Twining was the belle of the dance. She uses Cress Corn and Bunton Selves to keep her toes twinkling. Sold by Wainwright Pharmacy and all Drug Counters.

Mrs. F. N. Fuhner was up from Chauvin for a few days last week.

Harold Horsley was down from the city for a few days renewing old acquaintances last week.

Don't forget to bring your application when you apply for your car license. It contains all the particulars needed for the issue of your new license. Plates and drivers' licenses now available.—Joe Welch, issuer.

A splendid attraction at the Buffalo Cafe is receiving much attention this week. It is a new electric automatic Wurliizer gramophone which gives a choice of 16 popular tunes at "a nickel a time!"

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bibby, sr., celebrated the 38th anniversary of their marriage on Saturday last and—may they see many more years of wedded bliss together.

Mr. Jim Robinson, the local agent, made delivery of a D-40 3-ton L.H.C. truck to the Gold Standard Oils Ltd. last week, and the new owners declare it is dandy for their work.

COMING EVENTS

The DIAL REVIEW by Walter Dales

Speaking of ambitions, a listener writes to say that her favorite ambition is to sing like Frances Langford, blues crooner on Hollywood Hotel, C.J.C.A., Pabian, 7 p.m. Who knows? If you fondle your dream's religiously, Louella Parsons might one day gather you in with the other big guest stars. Plenty of Canadians are right in the centre of the radio spotlight down in the U.S.A.

Jack Benny is disillusioned. They elected him the second-best dressed man in Hollywood; but he didn't even rate in the first ten among Hollywood's great lovers. Grinned Benny: "And they told me at school that 'clothes make the man!'"

Local radio fans vote Harry Von Zell as the star on a recent Jack Benny show. Von Zell was too big a showman not to see the possibilities of dubbing the commercials' whod questing in Don Wilson's place. He made Wilson fans like him, avoided any comparison, gave the show its biggest laughs.

Janice Osborne, pretty singer of romantic songs over C.J.C.A., has a globe map in her New York apartment with the name and location of every radio station over which her voice has been heard. In addition to C.J.C.A. they include over 200 stations in every state of the U.S.A., as well as every Canadian province, Australia, New Zealand South Africa, Mexico and France. Janice was recently voted the most popular female singer heard on World Broadcasting System programs.

RADIO QUESTION BOX
Q.—I have sold several stories to magazines, and yet Broadcasting Stations will not buy the plays I send them. Don't they know good radio stuff when they read it?—Scribe.

Ans.—Columbia Broadcasting System receives 15,000 radio scripts every year, and only about one-tenth of one percent get on the air. Many of those who submit programs may be experts in their own fields—in fact, some are top-notch magazine and newspaper writers—but they don't understand radio. Some of the shows suggested are so impractical they're funny. There was a woman, for instance, who suggested an "Old Maid Series" in which spinners would get up before the microphone and tell the why and wherefores for their state of single-mindedness.

But the prize of them all is the lad who had a swell idea for a hospital show. Two people supposed to have been knocked unconscious in an automobile accident were to describe their experience while under ether. To make the effect perfect for the studio audience, others were to parade up and down the aisle, waiting ether over them from spray guns.
